Gotcha!! Was half blind and too anxious when I tried for this one on Friday- glad to have yet another geotour under my belt :)

Left an Edmonton bound TB - hope the owners come and pick it up >:)

The Geo Muggler Strikes Again! TFTC!
Terribly sick today [xx()], but that's not going to stop me from getting at least one Geocache on a Saturday. Cache had strayed from it's intended hiding spot, almost gave up, then there it was. Put back in proper spot, everything in great shape.

Really enjoyed learning a little more about this city on our first ever trip here. The coordinates we calculated came up empty but I was sure i was in the right area. Used th e hint and had the cache in hand within seconds and only about 20M from where I had calculated.

We now have all of this series...off to the final in Ottawa later this summer! TFTC!

Thanks for a delightful tour around Edmonton. I'm amazed the co-ordinates worked out correctly so easily. Will move along geocoins. Left a Vancouver keychain. This is my 3rd GWN geotour cache. A few more to go.... hope this series stays alive for a while.

Brought Landsharkz from BC along for this tour. A few great spots along the way. Good fun! Scared the crap out of a neighborhood resident on the way out though.

the location was pretty easy to spot - so we messed up the snow good, and I made a lousy show angel - just to demuggle the obvious digging. :) TFTH Ranger Bob and KappaAlpha!

Checked on final location with a VIP [;)] coming to town planning to do this cache. Turns out to not be a winter friendly location. Did some digging around based on memory and couldn't find the ammo box. Went back today with a replacement cache with the clue, a log book, and some swag. I placed a LnL container and marked a big X on the plank above it so you know where to dig. The final calculation is still valid. Feel free to contact me to confirm you clues from the stages and the final coords. When finding in winter, bring gloves and perhaps a little shovel. Enjoy! [;)]

Team eelow&beelow from Ontario came up with the idea for a Canadian multi-cache series that would take you across Canada with stops at each of the capital cities of Canada. TeamRB&R created the Alberta cache which was then adopted by KappaAlpha Team on Jan24/07. As part of the tour you will be taken to six spots (waypoints) in Edmonton that are noteworthy visits of significance while staying here. The posted co-ordinates for this cache are bogus (no cache exists there). At each other waypoint on the route you must find a clue to help you solve the final coordinates to the cache placement in Edmonton. On the inside of the ammo box and on the log book, you will find a three digit code to help you solve the ultimate GREAT WHITE NORTH GEOTOUR FINAL

Although you do not have to do the waypoints in any particular order, we strived to do them on a logical route that would allow you to tour some interesting parts of Edmonton and bring you back near the start. We also made certain that each waypoint had a good collection of geocaches nearby them to provide a distraction along the way. Finally, all waypoints and the final cache are accessible by major transit routes or LRT for the rental car impaired and were completed by car inside of two hours.

Welcome to The City of Edmonton, please enjoy your visit with us here!

FINAL EDMONTON GEOCACHE PLACEMENT SOLUTION:

N 53 (WPT2XX + 11) . 474 + (WPT3XX + WPT4XX)
